Well gang, as I'm sure most of you know, I'm mostly QRT on HF now. The only on-air presence is the 10m beacon over at the other place (28230.8 Kc). I do have a replacement antenna, it's just a matter of getting it in the air. This will take some infrastructure additions but there's a whole list of things need doing between now and then so this is looking somewhat long term. I hope to be back before year's end. It's good to have goals - hi.

The new antenna is an old favorite, a 240' Doublet with a 600Ω ground tuner. If I let the magic smoke out of it, it'll be at ground level and I can readily get to it. As an added bonus, it should get me back on 160m which is something I've wanted for a very long time.

I would like to thank Randy WB4SPB for stepping in and helping cover my NCS slot and also to Dan N0DA and Scott W7IZ for also covering the void left by Lee and myself.

If anyone is interested in becoming an NCS, please contact me - Patrick NG7I sbus1313@gmail.com and I'll see about getting you on the schedule. If you want to try it, just ask. The existing guys might just let you have their slot! If it turns out to be too much then we'll take it back no problems.

Best 73,

Patrick NG7I

If you're not in the Northwest, just think of NWN as "Net Without a Name" -hi
